A Knock-Out Blow! Judge Williams' Decision Against The Bank of Ironton.

B, B, Rengan et al.
vs.
The County Court of Iron
County et al.
In the Circuit Court of Iron
Iron County, Mo. County et al.

The Plaintiffs, by their polition in this ease, and in their capacity as taxpaying citizens of Iron county, Missouri, ask this Court for a mandatory injunction to restrain and enjoin the County Treasurer of said county from hereafter depositing the county funds, or district school funds or capital school funds, or any part thereof, of said county, in the Iron County Bank, under and by virtue of an order of the County Court of said county, to designating and selecting that bank as the depository of such funds, made on the Bank as the county depositary for the ensuing two years. The case was argued and submitted at the October term of the circuit court and was taken under advisement by the Judge. In rendering his decision Judge Williams stated that the plaintiffs had utterly failed to make a case. The plaintiffs appealed to the Court of Appeals.

For years the REGISTER has advocated an ordinance preventing cows running at large, just as before that it urged the law now in force restraining horses, mules and hogs from the free use of the streets. How many of our people would vote to return to the primer meval conditions when the melodious and fragrant hog had the liberty of the city? A proposition to do that would be laughed to scorn, and with good reason. Every rule of justice and decency that applies to the other quadropeds in this connection applies with equal force to the foraging, splotehing cow. Let the council submit the question to vote at the committed proposed and sustained and selecting the from County Court in the making of the order, day and provided, to designate and select some depository of said funds. The petition are formed and provided, to designate and select some depository of said funds. The petition are formed and provided, to designate and selecting the from County Bank as the depository of said funds, or any of them; requiring it to proceed, under the statute, in such cases made and provided, to designate and selection of any partiality or improper motive on the part of the County Court in the making of the order. The petition is an extending and selecting the from County Bank as the depository of said funds, nor case and in violation of its duty and of the law now in proceed, and sustained, the plaintiffs amounted to no averment of any abstantive fact tending, even by necessary limited to the county for any partiality, or corrupt, or improper motive on the part of the County Bank as the depository of the funds. The petition, by inserting an alegation of the first particles of the county for any partial ty might be granted, if the evidence should warrant it.

On the trial the evidence wholly failed to disclose any abuse of discretion, partiality, corruption, or improper motive on the part of the County Court, in the acceptance of the bid of the from County Bank, or in the rejection of the bid of the Bank of Fronton.

Upon the pleadings and evidence in the Case this Court is of the opinion that the Statute, Art. 6, Chap. 27, R. S. 1899, clothes the County Courts of the several counties of this State, with the power and authority to exercise a proper discretion in the matter of the acceptance or rejection of bids of banks or bankers for the county moneys; that the authority given by Sec. 2819, R. S. 1899, to reject any and all bids, is a plain grant of discretion, authorizing a proper consideration of all bids, with the power to reject any, or all, and to accept such bid as in the judgment of the court may be the best, in view of all the facts within the knowledge of the Court.

The alleights having failed to allege or court.

The plaintiffs having failed to allege or prove any abuse of such discretion, or any partiality, or corruption, or improper motive on the part of the County Court of Iron County, are not entitled to the relief sought by them, and their bill will be dismissed.
